My dear Mr Burnell,

I would have welcomed you to England before if I had not been prevented by indisposition. If at any time you should like to run up for a couple of days to London a room will always be ready for you at 29 Upper Hamilton Terrace, and we shall try to make you quite at home.

I should be glad to have a Basque Grammar for my series and if Mr van Vys is prepared to compile it, I should like to print it. As regards terms I offer half profits and will pay £10 on account of future profits as soon as the book comes from the press. It would be well if the Grammar could form part of my series of small grammars, but in that case it ought not to exceed a crown 8^{vo} volume of from 100 to 120 pages. Should the language with its five or six dialects require more extensive treatment and the book run to a greater number of pages I suppose it would have to be published irrespective of the Series.

I shall, with your permission announce very shortly that, health and life being spared, you will undertake to write a Dravidian Grammar.

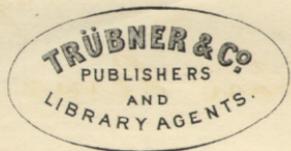

Please to remember that I shall be happy to print your Manus translation, should your arrangement with Oxford fall through. I could not of course pay the honorarium which the Clarendon Press pays, but whatever profit be made would be divided with you. Rost tells me that each volume of

The Sacred Books costs about £400 and the loss must therefore be great as the sale is not brisk by any means. Professor Muller proposes, I understand, a second series of 24 volumes, but there may be a difficulty with the government as regards the subsidy.

I hope that you have succeeded in keeping fairly well.

Believe me to be

My dear Mr Burnell

Sir,

I was much pleased to hear that you are willing to write a short grammar of Basque for my 'Collection of Simplified Grammars' on half profit terms. I shall be very glad to receive the manuscript as soon as it may be convenient to you.
The proofs for your correction with the manuscript will always be sent to whatever address you give us during your absence from San Remo.

Dear Sir

We have safely received the Ind of your Basque Grammar, and we shall at once place it in the printers hands, we should have acknowledged it before except that we understood that you had left San Remo for the season.

Kindly let us know where we are to send the proofs.

Yours faithfully
